

PROHIBITION IS ENJOINED

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

THE red-haired boy stood on a bank corner in Hope Thursday morning and shouted loud and long at a curious, grinning crowd. At first it was a self-conscious audience, shuffling uneasily and looking about, but the youthful speaker swung into his prohibition theme and began to hold them—the boy was good.

County Council of Hempstead Clubs Is Attended by 75

Allen and Hopewell Demonstration Groups Are Hostess Clubs

PLAN YEAR'S WORK

Each Club Assigned Demonstration Program One Month of 1936

The home demonstration club women of Hempstead county met December 6 at the First Baptist church in Hope for their regular December council meeting, with Allen and Hopewell clubs as joint hostesses. The total attendance for the day was 75, with 15 visitors. The following seven clubs were represented:

Allen, Hopewell, Palmers-Hinton, Centerville, Columbus, Bright Star, and Silver Springs.

The council opened at 10 o'clock with the president, Mrs. C. R. White of Columbus, presiding. After the house was called to order, the song, "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing," was sung. The Rev. W. R. Rogers, pastor of First Baptist church of Hope, then gave the devotional.

The welcome to the clubs was given by Mrs. Jessie Anderson of the Hopewell club, and Miss Velma Alford, Assistant Home Demonstration Agent, gave the response on behalf of the council. Miss Mary Louise Keith then sang "Trees," accompanied by Miss Harriet Story. This was followed by a very appropriate Christmas story, "The Gift of the Magi," read by Mrs. Frank R. Stanley of Hope. Frances Snyder sang "Oh Little Town of Bethlehem," accompanied by Miss Story.

Allice Hayton of the Allen club read a humorous poem entitled "The Night After Christmas." A Christmas pageant portraying the birth of Christ and the visit of the Wise men and shepherds, was given by the Allen club members. Vera Fowler of Hopewell club read a Christmas poem. Mrs. T. B. Fenwick of the Allen club read "The Little Match Girl," a story that everyone loves at Christmas time.

Because of the bad weather, it was voted to combine the program and business meeting, and have both in the morning so that the council could be dismissed after luncheon.

The business meeting was opened by the president. The club Scrap Books were first handed in. Then the president selected a nomination committee composed of Mrs. B. M. Jones of Allen Club as Chairman, Mrs. Johnson of Columbus, and Mrs. C. E. Boyce of Bright Star, to nominate new officers for the next two years. The women were nominated and unanimously elected to their respective places. They are:

President, Mrs. Eugene Goodlett of Allen; Vice-President, Mrs. O. A. McKnight of Bright Star; Secretary, Mrs. Lee Garland of Allen Club; Reporter, Mrs. W. E. Elmore of Washington.

The minutes of the September meeting were read by Miss Griffin, and approved by the president. Miss Griffin called the roll next. Palmers-Hinton Club, with twelve women

Earth Is Round, as Photos Prove

Stratosphere Pictures Taken From an Elevation of 14 Miles

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A new visual proof that the world is round, shown in a stratosphere picture snapped at almost 14 miles above the earth's surface, was displayed Wednesday night by the National Geographic Society.

Capt. Albert W. Stevens of the Army Air Corps, co-sponsor of the stratosphere flight of November 11, showed for the first time still and motion pictures taken from the balloon's record-making ceiling. Society officials said that these pictures and other scientific data obtained outback in importance the setting of the altitude record.

Stevens, commander of the flight, and his pilot, Capt. Orvil A. Anderson, were awarded at the exhibition the Hubbard medals of the Geographic Society "for distinguished achievement in scientific research."

F1—Lead Rioters Threaten

CAIRO, Egypt.—(Copyright Associated Press)—King Fuad signed a royal decree Thursday restoring constitutional government to Egypt.

Great Britain consented to Egypt's return to the self-government form of the suspended 1933 constitution after a persistent nationalist anti-British campaign.

Rioters Force Issue

CAIRO, Egypt.—(AP)—New street riots broke out in Cairo Wednesday night, in spite of the announcement that the cabinet of Premier Tewfik Nassim Pasha had bowed to nationalist anti-British pressure and decided to resign.

Crowds smashed 10 street cars, burning two, stoned a gas station, and wrecked street lamps in a fresh outbreak of the anti-British disorders which have caused a half-dozen deaths in recent weeks.

King Fuad, ruler of this nominally independent kingdom, was believed to have no alternative but to supplant the present docile instrument of the British empire with a united and aggressive anti-British government.

Nassim and his ministers will resign.

French Hint Death of Boycott Unless Ethiopia Recedes

Assert Sanctions May Be Abandoned Unless Peace Plan Is Accepted

ETHIOPIANS MARCH

150,000 Preparing to Attack Italians on the Southern Front

PARIS, France.—(AP)—French sources Thursday raised the possibility that sanctions against Italy might be abandoned if Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia rejects the Franco-British plan for peace between Italy and Ethiopia.

Officials awaiting his formal reply indicated that France and Great Britain would seek to persuade the Ethiopian monarch to accept negotiations on the basis of their plan.

Ethiopians to Attack

WITH THE ITALIAN TROOPS AT DOLO, on the Somali-Ethiopian border—(Copyright Associated Press)—Italy's southern armies prepared Thursday for the big push against their lines by Ras Desta Demtu, Emperor Selassie's son-in-law.

Scouts indicated that Desta is massing 150,000 Ethiopians at the headwaters of the Juba river and has inspired them to an almost berserk war frenzy.

British King Active

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Strong reports that King George had intervened personally with the government to force through the Anglo-French proposals for peace between Italy and Ethiopia circulated Thursday in diplomatic circles.

The king is understood to have been gravely concerned lest the Italo-Ethiopian crisis develop into a European conflict.

Little Nations Oppose

GENEVA, Switzerland.—(AP)—Opposition to any big concession to Italy at the expense of Ethiopia's sovereignty took form among smaller powers, of the League of Nations Wednesday night. It came on the eve of a session of a committee meeting to consider an oil embargo against Italy.

Russians, Turks, Bulgarians, Finns, Czechoslovaks and delegates from the Scandinavian countries were said to be among those opposing any sacrifice of Ethiopia or League principles.

A delegate said that the Little Entente and the Balkan Entente certainly would protest if there is any flagrant disregard of the League covenant, which the smaller powers regard as their insurance against aggression.

The League was nettled because it was ignored by France and Great Britain, which did not send Geneva the text of the African peace proposal.

F. E. Mulkey Appeals Circuit Court Case to State Supreme Court

FINALS ON NEVADA

Nevada Official Canvass Shows 483 "Dry" Votes and 435 "Wet"

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Chancellor Frank Dodge granted a temporary restraining order here Thursday to F. E. Mulkey, of Nashville, to prohibit the state revenue commissioner from closing his liquor store pending the outcome of a supreme court suit testing the validity of the Howard county liquor referendum.

Mulkey appealed from a Howard circuit court decree which affirmed an order of the county court in calling the liquor election.

The liquor store operator contended that the county court order was void because it was not issued at a regular term of court.

He contended that the petition containing 1,228 names asking a vote on the liquor question was invalid on the grounds that the postoffice addresses and voting precincts of more than a third of the signers were written in by other parties. He said also charged that the date of the proposed election was placed on the petition after many signatures were obtained.

Mulkey's application for an injunction to prevent the closing of his store Saturday night was denied at Nashville Wednesday by Circuit Judge A. P. Steel. Mulkey sought to continue business operations until the supreme court decision is handed down.

48 Margin in Nevada

PRESIDENTIAL.—(AP)—Exhibition forces in Nevada county won by a margin of 48 votes, 483 to 435, in the Tuesday's local option liquor election, showed Thursday.

The official count gave 483 against the sale of liquor, and 435 for liquor sales.

Two precincts, Union Church box and Leake township, were the last to report. Both were wet. The vote: Union box, 10 wet and 9 dry; Leake Township, 15 wet and 5 dry.

Eleven absentee ballots included in the official canvass Thursday showed 9 wet and 2 dry.

Nevada is the second Southwest Arkansas county to ballot on the liquor question. Howard county voted dry in September.

U. S., British, Italians, French Oppose Plea for Naval Parity

LONDON, Eng.—(Copyright Associated Press)—Japan's demand for equality in naval strength was rejected at the international naval conference Thursday by four other great naval powers and the British dominions.

The American, British and Italian delegates rejected the Japanese proposal, and had the support of the British dominions, while France expressed opposition chiefly on the grounds of procedure.

Cotton Belt Line Pleads Bankruptcy

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—(AP)—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in federal court Thursday by the St. Louis, Southwestern & Cotton Belt Railway.

The petition admitted inability to meet $24,958,992 in maturing and maturing obligations. The road asked the court to take jurisdiction over its property and affairs.

Polygamist Found Guilty in Arizona

3-Year-Sentence Possible—Prisoner Lays It to His Religion

KINGMAN, Ariz.—(AP)—A jury reached a verdict in four hours late Wednesday convicting J. C. Spencer of "open and notorious cohabitation" for his polygamous life at a strange cult in isolated Short Creek, Ariz.

Spencer, father of 13 children by two wives, was the first of three persons from that community, 400 miles away, to be tried. No recommendation as to sentence was made. Three years imprisonment is possible.

"I have a clear conscience because I have been following the dictates of my religion," said Spencer. "My father went to jail for the same thing in Utah many years ago."

John F. Barlow, bishop of the Short Creek cult, declared:

"We are prepared to take this case to the United States Supreme Court if necessary."

The League was nettled because it was ignored by France and Great Britain, which did not send Geneva the text of the African peace proposal.

An Italian spokesman said he anticipated that for the present no date for oil sanctions would be fixed.

The League's General Staff on sanctions completed a report Wednesday night indicating that sanctions are functioning well.

Although the oil sanction is scheduled for discussion Thursday, apparently no action will be taken until the Anglo-French peace formula situation is straightened out.

Ten nations have notified the League they are ready to add oil, coal, iron and steel to the list of sanctions against Italy. They are Russia, Roumania, Argentina, Irak, Finland, New Zealand, The Netherlands, Siam, India and Czechoslovakia.

The menacing situation in Egypt and a desire by Britain and France to reestablish quickly friendly relations with Italy were said to be outstanding reasons why London and Paris quickly drafted a new Italo-Ethiopian peace plan.

Italy Getting Oil From Texas Ports

Shipments From Gulf Points Running Double Normal Business

DALLAS, Texas.—(AP)—Increased shipments of oil for Italy continue to leave Texas' Gulf ports.

At Corpus Christi, approximately 1,000,000 barrels of crude oil, almost twice the amount for any similar period, have been shipped to Italy since October 1.

Corpus Christi records show 300,000 barrels of crude are scheduled to leave that port for Italy within the week.

The Houston Port Commission reported shipment of 11,143 tons of crude in September against none for the same month of 1934. Gasoline shipments are 18 times over the 1934 figures for the first 10 months of this year, and 195,000 barrels of fuel oil were moved in August and September.

Capt. C. Bonanno, master of the Italian tanker, Trotter, docked at Corpus Christi, said his vessel had been chartered by the Italian government to transport oil for naval operations. The company has a contract with the Italian government to furnish oil supplies in 1936.

Corpus Christi reported the expected call of three other Italian vessels within this month to take on more crude oil. Two Italian tankers are docked at Port Aransas.

U. S. Is Criticized by Cuban Liberals

HAVANA, Cuba.—(AP)—The Cuban Council of State met Wednesday night, but election of a provisional president to succeed President Carlos de Mendota was postponed until Thursday.

The acting president is Jose A. Borknet, 71, secretary of state, who took over the office automatically Tuesday night when President Mendota resigned to facilitate the holding of presidential elections.

Carlos Manuel de la Cruz, presidential candidate on the Liberal party ticket, issued a statement in which he accused the United States government of interference in Cuban politics. He criticized the recent plan worked out to reconcile political differences in Cuba by Dr. Harold Willis Dods of Princeton University, who was invited to Havana by the Cuban government.

Gen. Barrio G. Menocal, head of the Menocalista party, which forced the resignation of Mendota by refusing to participate in elections, said Mendota's action was "a gesture of the most noble and patriotic quality."

Col. Fulgencio Batista, chief of the army, called Mendota's action a "generous, unselfish but lamentable gesture."

The names of four men from whom the provisional president may be chosen were discussed.

They are Borknet; Andres Domingo Morales del Castillo, secretary of justice and acting secretary of the interior; and Leonardo Anaya Murillo, secretary of education.

The Truth About Diet

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The average person consumes far too much protein with his food daily. Of course, your body has the happy faculty of getting rid of excess protein without much trouble, and it is able to have a liberal supply of protein than an undernourished. But, if you want to regulate your body weight, you should also regulate your diet in relation to the amount of protein you take in your food.

Experiments indicate that a man who weighs 154 pounds, or 70,000 grams, should have about 44 grams of protein every day. If he weighs less, he needs less protein. If he weighs more, he can take more protein.

(For the purpose of easy calculation, when you buy your food, there are about 454 grams to the pound, or about 29 to the ounce.)

When we study the amounts of food that most Americans eat, we find that they take 106 grams of protein every day instead of 44.

Since protein food is generally more expensive than carbohydrate food, it is more economical to eat carbohydrates for fuel or energy value, and proteins for body-building and tissue repair.

Children require more protein, in proportion to their weight, than do grownups, because they have the double purpose of maintaining their body and of growing. In fact, it has been suggested that a child requires two or three times as much food as a grown man does for each pound of weight.

If the amount of protein you eat is much in excess of what your body requires, the excess is eliminated through the proper organs, although a part of it may be burned up in the body and used as reserve fuel.

Actually one gram of protein or one gram of carbohydrate will yield about four calories of energy when burned in the process of digestion in the body.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

"Victorious Troy" finds John Masefield going down to the sea again—and, as is usually the case, producing a fine, stirring book to delight the heart of any stay-at-home who likes to read of the brave old days of square-rigged ships.

Mr. Masefield's new book is a novel telling about an English ship in the great Australian grain trade. Coming across the southern Pacific the vessel is overtaken by a typhoon. The skipper, bending the elbow a bit too freely, fails to recognize his danger and refuses to take proper precautions.

As a result, when the storm strikes, the ship is immediately dismasted, half a dozen men—including the two mates—are washed overboard, and the captain is knocked about by a wave and given three broken limbs. When the storm at last passes, the ship is utterly helpless and the only person who can take command is an apprentice who is in his mid-teens.

For under a jory rig, and finally lent to her safe to port makes the South Sea, and a swell one, too, as I believe mentioned.

Heavy initially, Mr. Masefield's description of this typhoon is one of the most exciting bits of writing in all the literature of the sea. You can fairly feel that storm, as he gives it to you; feel it, and see it, and hear it as well.

Published by Macmillan, "Victorious Troy" sells for $2.50.

July, originally the fifth month of the year, was called "Quintilis" by the Romans.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

"We don't put up stockings," said a modern mother. "It's such drivel. Anyway, we have only steam radiators and baby-manufacture lies about Santa Claus!"

One other joined her but the rest of the crowd declared they had loved to think of those mysterious lumpy stockings on Christmas morning when they were little and they were going right on doing the same thing.

When asked what I thought, I suggested that each mother had a right to decide for herself, then added that I still believed in Santa, that I cannot rid myself of the thought that something mysterious happens to the world on Christmas eve.

I cannot give I am right in urging parents not to spoil the sweet myth of Christmas. I may be all wrong in not suggesting that we celebrate Christmas more sanely and purely as a Birth Day, without the materialism of presents or the symbols of heathenism as so many call the holly and mistletoe.

Real Christmas Meaning Buried Actually, we are too prone to forget the real meaning of Christmas and the tender beginnings of the Christian era. Also too quick to forget good will toward men and kindness to our neighbor. Although it is not always the case, one is likely to discover that the modernist is not only likely to banish St. Nick but the other things too.

It is very hard to analyze Santa Claus, to segregate him from all other traditions of Christmas. He belongs in folk-lore, however, and most folk-lore has sprung from the needs of a people. Throughout the centuries he has withstood the ineffectual attacks of the practical.

Perhaps he was created in the first place to bring the spirit of Christmas, a little closer to earth and human understanding. An agent, one might say, to emphasize the day of giving and forgiving. Like the flag that shows us we have a common bond and without which many would cease to think of country as "his" country, his "personal" land.

The comparison is not analogous but it serves to explain an idea. There is a certain UNITED fellowship under Santa Claus, an emotional lodge, so to say. At Christmas time and during its preceding weeks there is an elevation of spirit.

We pretend it is the children, but it is not living children alone who move us to be happy and expectant. It is those past youngsters—ourselves—who preserve a memory and still serve it. We romanticists dare not part with Santa, the tree, the stocking, the holly, the presents—although they may exist only in our thoughts. Besides, I think we need Santa Claus for one grand good explosion of joy once a year.

That he should be associated with Christmas instead of New Year's Day or Thanksgiving must have a reason. All Christendom has adopted a carnate saint with certain peculiar customs, to color the more abstract generosity. I believe that Santa Claus is red suit or bright, fat or lean—leaving gifts in the children's sabots or hanging them on a tree—will continue to endure. If it Mars we should destroy, not the bright merry old boy who sings out, "Merry Christmas to all, and to all a good night."

Glorifying Yourself

By Alicia Hart

Flat chests no longer are fashionable on the screen or off. The girl who has hollows around her collarbones and an under-developed chest should swim as much as possible and, in addition, do exercises to develop the pectoral muscles.

The best exercises of this type make use of a low, narrow box (like an orange crate) and dumbbells or similar weights," says Donald Loomis, trainer of Hollywood stars.

"Lie on your back on the low box, with a two and one-half pound dumbbell in each hand. Raise hands upward, keeping elbows stiff, lower arms slowly to the sides and slightly backward, then, without bending elbows at all, go back to the starting position. Repeat ten times for the first two weeks. Gradually work up to twenty times, then use five-pound dumbbells.

"Remember, of course, that the exercise must be done slowly and deliberately and that the way in which you force arms backward as you lower them is most important. This one movement stretches and strengthens the pectoral muscles.

"Another good routine improves your breathing as well as the lines of your chest. Here are directions: "Lie on the box, holding a five-pound weight or bar in each hand. Stretch arms upward, inhale deeply, then keeping elbows stiff, lower arms backward and down, meanwhile holding your breath. Do not exhale until arms are as far backward as they will go. Repeat fifteen times."

NEXT: Makeup boxes for Christmas.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

After the death of her parents, lovely DANA WESTBROOK comes from abroad to make her home with her grandmother, MRS. WILLARD CAMERON.

Dana's half-sister, NANCY WALLACE, resents Dana's coming.

Dana's grandmother is elated when rich RONALD MOORE falls in love with her granddaughter. Dana, meanwhile, has become attracted to DR. SCOTT STANLEY, a struggling young physician.

Nancy, who makes her love to Ronald behind an anti-social attitude, unmercifully watches his love for Dana deepen. Just as anxiously, she plots to ruin Scott Stanley's interest in Dana.

Dana and Scott, swept away by their love for each other, recklessly decide to marry. Mrs. Cameron absolutely predicts that the marriage will not last. Paula, in turn, by an emotional storm over the news that Scott and Dana have married.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

PAULA said to the housekeeper, "Fix me up something to drink. Something stiff. And bring another package of cigarets. After that I don't want to be disturbed—not by anyone."

Her directions were followed discreetly, and in silence.

"Why don't you say something?" Paula shrieked wildly, her tant nerves snapping. "Didn't you hear the news? Scott's married!"

"Yes, I know," Charlotte told her. "I'm sorry."

"Sorry? What are you sorry about?"

"I'm afraid he's made a mistake," Charlotte said quietly. "He had no business getting married when he's just beginning his practice."

"Of course he hadn't," Paula gulped down the strong drink and made a wry face.

"He'll probably regret it," Charlotte said. "No one knew Paula so well as her housekeeper, who had devoted herself to spoiling Paula, catering to her every whim, for years."

"All right, now. Go out and let me sleep."

When the door closed, Paula flung herself down. Deep, terrible sobs were smothered against a pillow.

She told herself that she hated Scott. She never wanted to see him again! The paroxysm over, she lay staring with glazed, pained eyes at the beautiful, ornate room.

It might have been different, she thought, if she had allowed Scott to see what was in her heart instead of hiding her love. She had been so afraid of losing his companionship that she had accepted crumbs—the confidence and affection he gave her. But she had never let him look into that secret place of her heart, filled so long with nothing but him.

"I know every mood of his," Paula thought desolately. "It will take her years to know him as I do. And yet she walks off with him after a few months and marries him!"

Perhaps if they had not gone to the club that afternoon, he would not have met Dana. Or if Dana had not had some misunderstanding with Ronald Moore this wouldn't have happened.

Maybe . . . maybe . . . there were those terrible pains in her head again. They always came when Paula was emotionally upset. More terrible than ever . . . blind her with pain. Setting her crazy.

She got up and staggered to the dressing table. From her purse she took a small key, which she fitted into a jewelry case. From the jewelry case she lifted a small box. For a moment, she stared at the little white pill. She was remembering that quack doctor's words. He had been called in one night at a hotel where she was staying. He had given her one of these pills, withholding the name from her. It had brought relief from pain almost miraculously. For a price, he had finally revealed the name of it. But he had said: "I warn you to leave this alone. It means hellish consequences."

ON the day Dana and Scott returned from their honeymoon, Paula had gone shopping, looking for a wedding present.

She considered silver and china. But she didn't know the patterns they preferred. She doubted that Dana and Scott had even selected patterns. Marrying so suddenly, they couldn't have planned anything.

She decided on a beautiful and expensive lamp, the shade designed in an elaborate Oriental pattern. She had completed this part of her shopping expedition and was preparing to park her car before undertaking some other errands when a roadster pulled out from the curb.

Paula recognized the occupants, Ronnie Moore—and Dana!

After the first shock, Paula greeted them gayly. She felt excited. Here was Scott's bride, back from a 10-day honeymoon, and already meeting Ronnie downtown.

Deep in her heart a voice whispered, "Patience, Paula—just have patience!" She could almost hear the words, singing themselves aloud.

THAT night Dana said to Scott: "I went shopping and Ronnie brought me home."

"That was nice," Scott said.

He was standing by a window, looking out. Dana thought his face seemed sober, troubled. His voice had sounded grim, too.

"You don't mind, do you?" Her voice faltered a little.

Scott wheeled from the window. "Great heavens, no!" He laughed. "But you look worried!"

"I am worried," Scott admitted. "It's Mrs. Wilkins. One of the prettiest, clearest operations I ever performed. And now something's happened and the incision must be re-opened. There's no accounting for things like that."

"Who is Mrs. Wilkins?"

"Mrs. Wilkins is a very important person to you and to me. My first surgical job in this town. It would mean something to have trouble set in." He added, "Then, too, she's a nice old lady."

Dana felt an impulse to laugh. She had been so conscientious,

SO THEY SAY

If you want to change the world or the outside, you have got to change yourself, and everybody else, on the inside, for the New Deal will lie not in the ballot box or in a popular uprising, but in the well-springs of the human will—Carl Vrooman, Bloomington, Ill.

We listen to radios and obtain culture by listening, but our initiative dies as we listen, and through us it dies in our children, so that we are getting to be non-musicians, but likers of music—Edwin Claude Mill, musical authority.

There has been a lot of talk about us having a drag. I want people to know we serve our time in jail like other respectable people.—Husband of Mrs. Ernestine Meskes, Birmingham sentenced for liquor violation.

Today Italy is fighting in Ethiopia a gasoline war. Its tanks, airplanes, an individual may be generous, but nations have not the right to be. They must be selfish and so it is necessary to prove to them that it is in their interest to be pacificist.—Count Carlo Sforza, former Italian foreign minister.

There already had faced the perplexing problem of where to put these gifts in their limited quarters. "Gosh!" Scott exclaimed. "If this keeps up, we'll need a house. Maybe I made a mistake giving up the old place."

"We'll find places," said resourceful Dana. "And you didn't make a mistake. Think how nice it will be this winter without a furnace to bother with."

NEVER, never would she let Scott know of that first, deep disappointment she had felt when he had brought her to this home.

"This," said Dana, her arms lifted high to Scott who was standing on a chair, packing wedding gifts on a high shelf. "Is the penalty for marrying such a good-looking and popular doctor?"

Paula's present, which Dana called "Light from the East," was one of those that was not packed out of sight. It looked very grand, and oddly out of place, in the modest apartment.

Paula had dropped in the day before and then dashed home for a beautiful Oriental tapestry and two gorgeous vases. "I have no earthly use for them since they don't match the scheme of my place," she said. "So please use them, Dana."

Neither did Dana think they matched the scheme of her apartment, but to refuse was out of the question. She watched, with misgivings, as Paula tacked the elaborate tapestry above the couch. Dana didn't like it. She didn't like the Oriental vases, or the Oriental lamp either.

But what could she do about it when Paula was obviously trying to be friendly?

Nancy breezed in presently. "Where's the incense?" she had asked. "And the teakwood and the carved ivory and all the rest? I must say. I wouldn't have suspected you of anything like this, Dana."

"Paula brought them. She seemed anxious for us to use them," Dana said doubtfully. "I'm afraid they make this living room look pretty awful."

"Smooth as silk," Nancy commented.

After a moment, Dana realized Nancy had not been talking about the living room.

Depression Will Affect Generation

Children of Poor of 1928-33 Impaired by Under-Nourishment

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Children of the newly poor, whose standards of eating, housing and clothing went downward with the depression, lost weight between 1928 and 1933 until the average child between six and ten years weighed 2 per cent below normal, the United States public health service reports.

Charts made by the health service show that the loss in weight among the children of the "depression poor" was more than the 2 per cent below normal, since they weighed well above normal before 1928.

Weighted 3,400 Youngsters

Health officials, in their attempt to discover the effect of the depression on children, weighed a group of 3,400 youngsters going to school in Birmingham, Cleveland, Greenville, S. C., Pittsburgh and Syracuse. They picked these between 6 and 14 years of age and kept track of those ages between 1928 and 1933.

They studied children in three types of families: first, those whose living remained comfortable through the depression years; second, those families which always had been relatively poor; and last, those whose income dropped during the test period.

They found that 15 of every 100 children belonged to the fortunate group which suffered no marked change in the manner of living; 40 children in every 100 came from families which always have been classed as poor; and 45 in every 100 were in the group which felt the depression closing in about them, changing the food they ate, the clothing they wore, and the quarters in which they lived.

Miner to Future Generation

It was those changes in the manner of living which undoubtedly brought the decline in the children's relative weight, says the bureau of labor statistics in its labor bulletin.

"By affecting the health of children, the depression thus proved a serious menace," says the bulletin, "not only at the present, but also to the future generation."

Fierce Kea Birds Prey Upon Sheep

New Zealand Sheep Ranchers Appeal for Government Help

WELLINGTON, N. Z.—(AP)—New Zealand sheep farmers have asked for government aid in destroying the kea bird, one of the worst pests the sheep farmer must contend with.

The birds alight on the backs of the sheep, digging sharp beaks into their icicles until they reach the kidney at which they devour.

Thousands of sheep have been killed in this manner each year. The birds previously kept to the higher country, but have of late followed the flocks to low country.

Blytheville Seeks Hardest Opponents

Pine Bluff, Little Rock, Ft. Smith, El Dorado Are Invited

BLYTHERVILLE, Ark.—Six of the strongest high school teams in Arkansas have been offered places on the 1936 schedule of the Blytheville High School Chicks, it was announced by Fred Salter, graduate manager, who has submitted a list of seven open dates to school officials at Pine Bluff, Little Rock, North Little Rock, Fort Smith, Hot Springs and El Dorado.

Games also are being sought with Tech High, prep school champions of Memphis, Maplewood High of St. Louis and one outstanding southeast Missouri team.

Of the teams which appeared on the Chick schedule this year only three have been scheduled definitely for next season. They are Forrest City, Jonesboro and Paragould, considered the most formidable aggressors in this section.

The Chicks, untied and undefeated since 1933, sought state championship honors this year, but on account of their comparatively weak schedule were handicapped in gaining statewide recognition.

Wagon Wheels
Wagon wheels along a lonely road
Branching from the highway leave their mark—
To reach their distant haven before dark.
Wagon wheels—rumbling patiently
Along a lone and little-traveled path,
Leave behind their imprint in the soil—
Passing by, this is their aftermath.
Some lives, I've thought, are like those
wagon wheels,
Revolving in their still and obscure
ways,
Weaving out their pale, small destinies
Along the lonely bi-paths of their days.
But, like those wagon wheels, there is no life,
However regal, lowly, cruel or kind
But, passing on its way, along the road,
Leave some faint impress on the path behind.—Selected.

affairs, left for Geneva amid rumors unclarified by a brief parliamentary revolt. With him were experts who had been instructed to put the oil question aside until the peace plan is thrashed out.

The cabinet discussed the situation again and apparently decided to stick by its decision.

There were reports of a serious rift between Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, and Eden.

It was Sir Samuel who, with Premier Laval of France, formulated the new peace plan.

Views held generally by the London Press were reflected in such headlines as "Ethiopia rejects peace plan" and "smaller states let down by France and Great Britain."

The Star, calling the peace terms a sordid document, said it would be better for "Eden's standing in the future if reports of his resignation had not been denied."

Hitler and Banker Split on Policies

Powerful Schacht Preaches an Apparently Anti-Nazi Economy

BERLIN, Germany.—(P)—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Reich minister for economics and head of the Reichsbank, came in conflict with Dictator Hitler Wednesday night on the purposes of socialism and capitalism.

Addressing a federal trade organization, Dr. Schacht said that individual success is based on community service, but "nobody can demand success from the community."

"Everybody must use his success to help society," he declared. "That is active socialism, in no wise contradicting private initiative, which is the supporting force of sound economies and which, while marketing organism cannot supplant."

This apparently was an attempt to refute the strict marketing principles of Walter Darre, Nazi commissioner of agriculture, as well as Hitler's speech three days ago in which the dictator cited state railroads as proof that "an enterprise serving the community can be conducted efficiently without private capitalist tendencies."

Schacht insisted that personal factors cannot be removed from overseas commerce and other kinds of trade.

lines. The airline medical examiners, composed of a group of 30 specialists who examine airline pilots only, have decreed unanimously that women are not physically or psychologically suited for flying a regular run. In fact, there are times when we belong on the earth, not in the sky, they stated.

When Helen Richey, who knows her way about the air as well as any woman who ever handled the controls, and most men, too, went to work as a co-pilot on an airmail run, the conflict began. Hired unwittingly as a publicity stunt, the employment of a woman co-pilot became such a popular feature the air transportation company got the government's permission to continue Miss Richey as a co-pilot on an occasional flight. After all, there was nothing in the rule books of the Bureau of Commerce on which to judge a woman's competency.

Few Are Affected
Foreseeing the day when women might want to qualify as pilots, the Bureau took the recent step that is resulting in a ban.

Miss Richey says that she understands and she isn't provoked with anyone. She is showing a sportsmanlike attitude to that of any of her masculine contemporaries.

Not very many of us have either the training or the desire to pilot commercial transports. The ruling will effect a small percentage of the women of the land. Just the same, the matter of women's rights will come up and some banners will be flown, undoubtedly, proclaiming that a woman can bring in her ship as well as a man can.

Evidence Favors Male Pilots
Miss Richey and the thirty medical men should be convincing enough evidence that at times the work of the world divides into camps. The only woman who ever acted as an airmail pilot admits that handling a transport in rough weather takes plenty of strength.

If women become unduly excited over this decision, our male contemporaries are likely to take it as only another proof that we should stay on the ground. Clear thinking—and a pilot needs it—shows that where there is the slightest reason to believe that the difference between a man's muscular development and a woman's may save a ship of passengers, there is only one choice to be made.

After all women can be happy without being pilots. Perhaps few of us would want to have a daily run anyway. Women haven't sought for chances to pilot street cars, locomotives, and run river boats. Few of us have sought jobs as truck drivers and only an occasional one has chosen a taxicab wheel as her method of livelihood.

Women Will Get Her Chance
Wise women know that the anatomical division of the sexes has an influence on a division of tasks in the economic field. They know, too, that obedience to this division will result in the greatest amount of lasting good to the largest number of people.

Therefore, if it seems best to thirty-one competent medical men to let men take passengers up the sky, women can be happy as passengers or riding the clouds alone.

Some night, somewhere, though, a man may fall down at the controls and a woman passenger may bring a ship through a storm. That's the interesting thing about life. And aviation.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON.—No one here is trying to laugh off the current results of the Literary Digest's current New Deal popularity poll. On the contrary, it is being discussed earnestly in the circles of the capital.

The effect created falls considerably short of a panic, because there is no New Dealer who cannot talk himself into believing that a 55 to 45 per cent vote on a general question comes far from meaning that all will be lost when Mr. Roosevelt campaigns next fall against a Republican candidate as yet unnamed.

Nevertheless, all of us are entitled to use our own judgments and if the prevalent swing against Roosevelt policies as shown by the poll continues, we will have to answer these questions:

1. Does a request for approval or disapproval of "acts and policies of the Roosevelt New Deal" bring the same pro or con reaction as a demand for choice between the election of Roosevelt and of Hoover—or Landon or Knox or Borah?

2. Is the present question equivalent in the minds of poll voters with that of the 1934 poll which asked whether voters favored Roosevelt policies "on the whole"?

3. How much of the anti-New Deal vote is a protest vote from liberals and left-wingers who feel Roosevelt hasn't gone far or fast enough, but who wouldn't vote for a Republican?

4. Is the Digest poll representative of all groups on the economic scale?

1936 Poll Important One
Regardless of how you may answer those questions now, the poll which the Digest presumably will take next fall as between the two major party candidates will be followed with infinitely more interest by all politicians and political prophets than the present one.

The pole as to policies shows clearly that the New Deal has slipped badly in popular esteem, but still leaves intact the political points.

On the other hand, the Digest presciently polls—especially the one in 1932—have been as indicative of the result that very few of us will be inclined to doubt its accuracy next October.

Hal More "Attitudes"
Wanted: A poor old widow in Maine who killed two of her own hogs for her family's use, who was promptly pounced upon by federal agents and penalized $18 "from her scant store."

A very serious effort is being made to locate this poor old widow and almost any official in AAA is willing to dig down to contribute for a reward to the successful sleuth.

She appeared first in the Atlantic Monthly in an article by John W. Owens, who ascribed the tale to a nice old retired clergyman of his acquaintance who had heard it while on a visit to his old home town in Maine.

AAA is also looking for a wealthy southern woman named Mrs. Dryden, who is reported to have received $1000 from the government despite the fact she had no contract to reduce cotton acreage and was, on seeking to return it, was told to keep it because its return would mean "too much red tape."

It would also like to find the AAA agents reported to be distributing $100 bills through rural districts as fast as they can hand them out.

All the Same Guy?
It is officially suspected that these present, had the greatest number. The next business to be discussed was the change of the council meetings. It was decided that the four meetings would be held in January, March, July and October in order to have a council meeting at the close of the year. The October council meeting will be combined with Achievement Day.

Each Club a Program
The Year Book for the council was discussed next. Each club is to furnish a report for one month of the year and these programs will be selected for the year book. The clubs were assigned the following months:

January—Allen and Belton.
February—Bingen and Hopewell.
March—Columbus and McNab.
April—Bright Star and McCaskill.
May—Liberty and Melrose.
June—Green Laster and Centerville.
July—Mt. Pleasant and Blevins.
August—Palmetto-Hinton.
Sept.—Washington and Okland.
October—Ozark.

November—Shower Springs.
December—DeAnn and Guenzey.

Three members of the council were selected to be the committee representing the Home Demonstration Council at Quorum Court in January. They were: Mrs. O. A. McKnight, Mrs. Eugene Goodlett, and Mrs. Lee Holt. Any other member of the council that will be urged to attend.

General discussion followed, and it was decided that the January meeting will be held on a Saturday afternoon at the City Hall in Hope, from 1 to 3 o'clock. This meeting will be strictly business, for the goals of the clubs are to be decided and other plans for the new year are to be discussed. The meeting was dismissed to go into the Sunday school building where a regular Christmas dinner was served, buffet style.

Although the weather prevented many of the women from attending the County Council, the day proved to be one of real value and pleasure to those who were present.

Directed by two control stations, five radio patrol roadsters manned by police are cruising throughout the Janelro in what sponsors claim is South America's first radio control police system.

"Built to Take It"

Says Frank Buck,
Famous Explorer

"Trailing" through the jungles has taught me that there is no substitute for ruggedness and dependability in a motor car. For over 20 years Dodge has been famous for these qualities. Everybody knows a Dodge can "take it."

Added to these attributes Dodge has been smashing all economy records—and as for the new 1936 Dodge... there are reports from new Dodge owners all over the country stating they are getting 18 to 24 miles to the gallon of gasoline—and saving up to 20% on oil.

To top it all—this big, new, Money-Saving Dodge has been acclaimed the "Beauty Winner" of 1936 by famous fashion authorities in all parts of the country. Yet Dodge now costs only a few dollars more than the lowest-priced cars.

November's Trade Above Last Year

Automobile and Construction Work Are Season's Best Performers

By the Associated Press
Industrial activity in November has continued the same sharply rising trend that was noted in October, according to the monthly statistical survey of The Associated Press.

The pace of industry's advance has carried it more than 21 per cent above the level of early September and 35.1 per cent higher than the closing week of November last year.

Total freight car loadings, seasonally adjusted, closed the latest period at the best level since December, 1931. A well sustained movement of miscellaneous and less-than-carload-lot freight as well as a jump in coal shipments incident to the colder weather recently experienced was chiefly responsible for the betterment.

Automobile production, soaring contra-seasonally last month, is currently advancing at a reduced rate. Informed circles expect output to level off for a period, tapering lower toward the early part of 1936.

Cotton manufacturing and steel ingot production were both substantially higher for the month, each index moving to new higher levels for the year. The production of electric current in November established a record high.

Residential building pulled away somewhat from last month's peak, but nevertheless remained more than 100 per cent above last year.

Mendieta Ousted as Cuba President

Quarrel Over Election Procedure Causes Sudden Resignation

HAVANA, Cuba—(Copyright Associated Press)—Cuba's turbulent political situation precipitated the resignation of President Carlos Mendieta Wednesday and catapulted Secretary of State Jose Barnet into his office, apparently clearing away obstacles to the holding of the December national elections.

Election Was Issue

HAVANA, Cuba—(AP)—President Carlos Mendieta resigned early Wednesday as the result of a political quarrel over election procedure.

The sixth president of Cuba since the downfall of Gerardo Machado on August 13, 1933, Mendieta submitted his resignation to the cabinet at 1:10 a. m. Eastern Standard Time. He had held the office for almost two years.

The cabinet, summoned after Mendieta had suddenly cancelled a radio address to the United States, accepted the resignation.

The president said he had resigned because a certain political faction considered him an obstacle to the holding of national elections.

Secretary of State Jose A. Barnet, 71, took over the presidency.

Mendieta's government recently set elections for January 10 in adopting a formula suggested by Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton University. Dr. Dodds was called to Cuba as a government political advisor after a Supreme Electoral Court had outlawed party coalitions in the elections, originally scheduled for December 15.

Miss Peterson will play the role of nurse and Harlow is cast as Dr. A. R. Dufec.

Yanks Trade Allen to Cleveland Club

New York Tries Valiantly to Keep Up With Boston Red Sox

CHICAGO (AP)—Blocked in attempts to match the shopping spree of the Boston Red Sox and the Detroit Tigers, the New York Yankees Wednesday ended 24 hours of bargaining by a trade with Cleveland.

The Yankees traded Johnny Allen for Monte Pearson and Steve Sundra, a Cleveland rookie who pitched for Minneapolis and Newark last season. All three pitchers are right-handed.

Manager Joe McCarthy, weary of the refusals he has been getting from rival owners each time he tries to buy an outfielder, said he intended to keep on trying. He admitted that something more than the acquisition of Pearson and Sundra was necessary to keep even with the Red Sox, who have purchased Jimmy Foxx and John Marcum, and the Tigers, who got Al Simmons Tuesday.

Allen, a pitching star in 1932 when he made his debut and won 17 victories against four defeats and then followed by winning 15 and dropping 7 in 1933, has been of little value to McCarthy since. Allen, enemy of American League umpires, and McCarthy do not get along well.

Stanford Seeking a Rose Bowl Win

Beaten by Columbia and Alabama, It Now Faces S. M. U. Mustangs

By DUDLEY ROSS
Associated Press Correspondent
STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif.—(AP)—Upset two years ago by Columbia and bombed to defeat last year by Alabama, Stanford's famous sophomores of 1935—new seniors—will make one last stand for victory in Pasadena's Rose Bowl on New Year's Day against Southern Methodist.

It will be the last collegiate football game for eight of the first-string varsity, and to win a Rose Bowl victory in their third attempt will erase the bitter taste of the pills labeled 7 to 0 and 2 to 13 by Columbia and Alabama, respectively.

A Pair Missing
Two of those ex-sophomores who have dominated the Pacific Coast grid-iron in victory, draw or even defeat for three straight seasons will be missing, but Coach Claude E. (Tiny) Thornhill expects to put this season's best-functioning eleven on the Pasadena turf.

The missing are Frank Alustiza, the hard-as-rock, blocking back who teamed up for two varsity years with his more famous mates, all-American Bobby Grayson and "Bones" Hamilton, and Claude Calloway, Bob Reynolds' running mate at tackle.

Alustiza was knocked off the grid-iron permanently this fall with an eye injury, and Calloway didn't even don a uniform, on doctors' orders, because of a siege of bronchial pneumonia last spring.

The others will be there, however—"Monk" Moscrip and Keith Topping at ends, Reynolds at tackle, Larry Roubie and Woody Adams at guards, Wes Mueller at center, and Grayson and Hamilton in the backfield. Moscrip's presence looked doubtful when he suffered a jaw fracture and a knee injury in Stanford's big game with California, but he is expected to be in there again when New Year's Day rolls around.

Three Are Sophs
To complete the lineup are Jimmy Coffis, little left halfback recognized as the Coast's best safety man, Bill Paulman, the blocking, punting quarterback, and Dale Beidle, tackle, all sophomores.

Possessed of a powerful running attack—both Columbia and Alabama will bear witness to that—the Indians this season nevertheless had to depend upon the field-goal kicking of Moscrip to defeat Washington, Santa Clara and Southern California. Coincidentally, the one game in which Moscrip's toe lost its aim resulted in Stanford's lone defeat, administered by U. C. L. A., 7-6.

Aerial Threat Appears
But in the California contest Stanford displayed an ability to punch over touchdowns it had failed to show earlier. It added to its former land power a real passing threat with the development of Grayson as a fine tosser.

Mixing of sharp-shooting aerial shots with running plays contributed perhaps more than any other factor to the Indians' two devastating marches through California's previously impregnable line for scores.

"They are more pass-minded now," Coach Thornhill chuckles. "They are ready to shoot them, and what's more they can make them work."

Stanford's pass defense has consisted in the simple expedient of sending the fast, rangy ends, Moscrip and Topping, rushing the passer, and no back since Alabama's Dixie Howell of 1933 has been able to stand them off and fire away with consistent coolness and accuracy. They are expected to have their toughest test against S. M. U.'s famed "neral circus."

The Indian attack, of course, is based on the Warner system, with variations of Thornhill's own invention. The great-running Grayson is the spearhead, but Hamilton, Coffis and Paulman are no mean alternates in the leather-slugging assignments.

The large, genial Thornhill readily admits his boys were given a lot more stuff to use than they found necessary to upset California.

Stanford hit its season's peak in that game, and "Tiny" fervently hopes they will touch it again in the Rose Bowl—for once.

In Motor Prams
LONDON—(AP)—Motorized prams or baby carriages, semi-airconditioned, with the nursemaid walking with her hand on a throttle instead of pushing as of old, have become the rage in London's fashionable West End.

Colors also are yielding to modern influences and babies of the rich ride in green, tan, or yellow vehicles, with the nurse, in some cases attired to match.

One London manufacturer has reportedly built a de luxe pram, costing $350 for a Hollywood film star's baby.

Amateur Is Beaten by Dusty Rhodes

Blondy Jones Used in Demonstration of Holds, Then Is Thrown

Instructor Al (Dusty) Rhodes, one-time lightweight wrestling champion, turned grappler Wednesday night to furnish fans a thrill in the main event of an all-amateur wrestling program at Fair park arena.

Rhodes took on a promising amateur product, Blondy Jones of Shreveport, La., who appeared at the arena and asked for a match. Jones made such a good impression that attempts will be made to bring him back.

Instructor Rhodes demonstrated several holds and then pinned Jones to the mat for a victory.

In the semi-final match Carl Woodruff and Bert Mauldin wrestled to a draw. Woodruff won his first round in four minutes with a crab hold. Mauldin took the second fall with a combination figure 4 and arm lock.

The preliminary brought together Newton Seerest and Fred Briant. The match ended in a draw. In the second preliminary (Doc) Zimmerly and John Newberry fought to a 20-minute draw.

Eight or possibly 10 wrestling and boxing matches will be arranged for next week, Promoter Bert Mauldin announced. Plans are underway to

Business Attitude Vital in Campaign

Massing of Business Opposition Is Real Threat to Roosevelt

By BYRON PRICE
Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington

Viewed from any angle, the massing of business opposition to President Roosevelt is a matter of prime interest politically, as well as economically. Politics always is uncertain, but at least interesting possibilities can be predicted on the basis of political history.

One lesson of the past is that it is almost impossible to elect or reelect a President over a determined and wisely-directed opposition by organized business. From that the Democrats may take warning.

Another is that the bringing together of powerful business organizations for political action usually results in extravagant campaign spending, and is likely to culminate in a scandal benefitting the other side. The Republicans may learn from that.

One way or the other, it is not improbable that business opposition to the Roosevelt policies, and to Mr. Roosevelt himself, will be one of the dominating factors in 1936.

Of course there is nothing new in business distrust of Mr. Roosevelt, or in the prospect that many important business leaders will be against him next year.

The interesting new thing about it, however, is that recently there has been a drawing-together of this sentiment, and a tendency to express it in organized fashion.

Wholesale refusal of the utility companies to register under the new holding company act coincides with a number of significant developments elsewhere.

Retracts from a referendum among members of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States at whose board are represented all of the great financial interests of the country, show on overwhelming majority against current "legislative trends."

The American Bankers association, in annual convention, gives a cold reception to "new deal" speakers. The Liberty league, which manifestly has ample financial backing, extends its attack to include most of the President's major proposals.

These organizations all maintain they are not in politics, but their effect on politics is beyond dispute.

Campaign Funds
That the Republicans intend to make a thoroughgoing job of raising campaign funds is evident from the personnel of the new finance committee appointed by Chairman Fletcher. It is headed by leaders who represent concerns accustomed to deal in millions.

A year ago, the Republicans were having great difficulty raising money. Those who were asked for funds replied in many cases by asking what assurance there was that the party would not go off at a tangent, and permit itself to be dominated by the radical elements, particularly in the west.

The general tenor of discussion at the "grass roots" conferences appears to have satisfied many eastern Republicans that the party would at least be more conservative than the Democrats.

The danger of too much emphasis on financial backing is illustrated by the experience of Edward F. Hutton, chairman of General Foods. He urged business, in a magazine article, to "gang up" against administration policies, but he found it advisable later to withdraw the expression and explain that he only meant "get together."

To Clearly to Conclude
It would be easy to draw hasty conclusions from all of this, with no facts to support them.

For one thing, the degree to which all business, big and little, is against the President has not been established. The Democrats contend that they will have much business and banking support next year, particularly from com-

Hollywood

By Paul Harrison

HOLLYWOOD—Short takes; This is a town where everybody is a potential star except the grocer boy. And he has just submitted his seventh scenario.

This town, says George Burns, is "the only place on earth where Gracie Allen can't embarrass me."

Hollywood is a place where the brain trusters will pay $80,000 for a successful Broadway play, and then spend $50,000 more changing it around so nobody, including the author, can recognize it.

This is a town where even a title by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow may not pass the censors. They've changed "The Children's Hour" to "These Three" to circumvent associations between the name and the daring, unfilmable play.

New sport of Cinemasian princesses—gliding. Jimmy Cagney and Robert Armstrong have taken it up.

One of Mae West's staunchest fans is Marlene Dietrich. The latter always drops around to listen when Klondike Lou records a song.

On the comeback list: Lugia Mon-munities largely dependent on agriculture.

Another thing to be borne in mind is that the mere existence of important financial backing for the Republicans does not prove that the election is to be "bought," or that any illegal or immoral methods are to be indulged in. The legitimate expenses of a national campaign are tremendous, and both parties spend plenty of money when they have it.

All that can be done now is to note the facts as they exist, and wonder what may come out of them.

Cultists Defend Polygamy Belief

Declare It Is Mormonism —But Mormons Excommunicated Them

KINGMAN, Ariz.—(AP)—I. C. Spencer and four other Short Creek colonists defended polygamy as part of their religious belief at Spencer's trial on "open and notorious cohabitation" charges here Tuesday.

The defense closed with testimony from Spencer who admitted that he had practiced polygamy and told of his two wives.

The state had rested with evidence picturing him as having two wives, 13 children and another baby on the way.

"Have you ever heard of the United Order?" asked Victor Hayek, his attorney.

"I was born into the order at Orderville, Ut."

"Is the principle of plural marriage a belief of the United Order?"

"No."

"Is it a part of the Mormon faith?"

"Yes."

"Are you a Mormon?"

"I was until excommunicated in 1925."

"Do you still cling to the beliefs of the Mormon faith?"

"Yes."

"While you were in Mexico, Lee's Ferry and Short Creek, where was Sylvia (Allred)?" (Spencer's alleged polygamist wife)

"She lived with me."

"Do you know Lyndia Spencer?"

"She is my legal wife."

"How many children have you?"

"Nine by her."

"How long have you believed in plural marriage?"

"All my life."

Admitting the advocacy of plural marriage as a part of their religious belief, Bishop John Y. Barlow, Isaac Barling, the latter's wife, Elva, and Roy Johnson, testified on behalf of Spencer, one of two polygamists under prosecution.

Barlow, leader of the Short Creek clan of some 200 members said the United Order, of which Spencer is a member, is an economic and religious organization. Barlow denied the group has beliefs other than those of the original Mormon doctrines.

J. W. Musser, Salt Lake City, treasurer of the United Order, testified the cult was patterned after the doctrines of Joseph Smith, original Mormon prophet.

Witnesses for the prosecution said Spencer had a legal wife and nine children in Utah but had been living at Short Creek with Sylvia Allred. She has borne Spencer four children and is to become a mother again.

Charles Heaton, president of the Kanab stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormon), testified the church excommunicated 14 Short Creek residents for their belief in polygamy.

County Attorney E. Elmo Bollinger produced through Howard Roark, relief investigator, affidavits in which Spencer and the woman allegedly admitted the parentage of four children.

Or maybe you recall him as Bull Montana. He has an acrobatic role in "Song and Dance Man."

Silver Crashes as China Dumps Hers

World Market at London Collapses, and Stays Down Wednesday

By the Associated Press
The London silver market, which collapsed Tuesday, was still depressed Wednesday, and one Democratic United States senator hinted that British financiers are trying to sell America's silver-buying policy.

Program Collapses
CHICAGO—The American silver re-education program blew up with a bang that reverberated throughout the world Tuesday and left business men and politicians from Shanghai to New York and London wondering what had happened.

Demise statements by Treasury officials in Washington that the silver purchasing program would continue to be "fulfilled" as usual, the whole scheme appeared to be suddenly going awry with Chinese governments seeking to dump vast quantities of the metal and the United States Treasury Department refusing to continue holding the bag for foreign governments and speculators by taking all the risk.

In London trade in silver was paralyzed for the first time in history, hampered by huge offerings and finding no buyers, the London silver market closed. Under the rules of the market exchange, all silver offered during the day must be taken at the price fixed at the opening. Traders protected themselves by refusing to fix a price.

Collapse of silver prices in the world's markets created a problem in Shanghai and Hongkong, where Chinese government officials had embarked upon a program of selling silver to get foreign exchange to be used in manipulating the new "managed" Chinese currency, which the government is seeking to link to the British pound sterling.

Stocks of silver mining companies, particularly those with foreign holdings, fell sharply on the New York Stock Exchange. Leading issues broke $2 to $6 per share, unsettling shares of other corporations, and sending a scare into the trading fraternity. United States Smelting suffered the sharpest break with a $6 loss for the day.

Lower Tariff Is Wallace's Hint

It's Alternative to Arbitrary Division of Income Here at Home

WASHINGTON. — (AP) — Secretary Wallace Wednesday pictured "a redistribution of income" as a prime necessity, which the nation can not escape.

The Secretary of Agriculture, in his annual report, favored an increase in the proportion of national income going to poorer persons.

He held that this would increase consumption and make for expansion production of factories and farms.

The other course open, Wallace said, "involves a redistribution of income likewise, but under happier conditions."

"With production stimulated through international trade," he said, "the total national income would increase, and though the increase would have to be distributed so as to increase consumption per capita, the operation would raise the national standard of living. By this means we would be balancing the national consumption with the national production or its equivalent—and on a rising scale."

The secretary said that agriculture will not monopolize the benefit of a more liberal import policy "even in the earlier stages."

"If we admit foreign goods into the United States, he continued, "it will provide dollar exchange that other countries can spend."

Hold Your Tongue About Holding Hands

"I never heard of her before," Clark Gable is reported to have commented when questioned about Della Carroll's story of a romantic interlude with him while on a tropical cruise. Yet here they are pictured on deck, side by side, and Gable doesn't look as though his pretty blonde companion was a total stranger.

Does a girl have the right to boast of her romances any more than a man? That's the problem raised by Della Carroll, pert, blond, Hollywood-bound show girl, who ecstatically told reporters in New York about a shipboard romance with Clark Gable, much sought movie idol. In this penetrating editorial, Helen Welshimer discusses the romantic implications of Miss Carroll's action.

By HELEN WELSHIMER
Love making is a co-operative venture. It takes two to hold hands—and each party has to be willing. It takes two to kiss, too, if the osculation is worth the effort.

Miss Della Carroll—if she had a romantic interlude with Clark Gable on a Pan-American boat as she says she did—had every bit as much fun as the ladies' favorite. (Maybe more. For after all, he is Clark Gable!) Therefore, why should she be excused for boasting of love on the decks any more than a man who kisses and tells would be?

Nobody took advantage of the chorus girl. No girl is ever wooed against her will. She capitulates because she likes it, and if she is afraid of a romantic hangover she should put down her glass at the first sign of dizziness. If she suspects that a heart throb is a prelude to a headache, it is time for her to seek her cabin.

Women Demand Sympathy In Acts of Love
Women, however, by divine right of sex, contend that it is their privilege to demand sympathy when anything goes amiss in a romance. They forget that they are just as responsible as men for the romance during its duration. They help it along. Romance is a game in which only one set of rules is played, men's rules, and a woman who can't use them should turn in her cards. It is about time women stopped expecting a handicap.

Clark Gable, adored by a multitude whose hearts are broken or slightly cracked, certainly in no wise attempted to attract the pretty dancer. She herself says that her heart became acrobatic when she heard he was on the ship and that she sought him out. Then let her take her medicine! If she didn't like the role of being Gable's playmate, she could have chosen another deck. Now that the boat has docked, it is a nebulous brand of sportsmanship that doesn't pay duty on romance and let it go.

Even Movie Star Merits Privacy
Every man who ever crossed an ocean has realized that it takes a woman to make the moonlight perfect. Clark Gable has as much right to a few tender minutes without the camera turning as any shipping clerk or merchant.

If Miss Carroll is talking because she likes publicity, we don't blame Gable for saying that he never saw her. He certainly did not! Not in that light! After all, it will be all right for her to tell her grandchildren some day that this is the hand that Gable held, but it is pretty low to tell her public.

Besides, Miss Carroll had fun. At least a couple of million women would like to have the experience she claims. Why should she publicize her adventure?

Prune and Cabbage Salad
Two cups finely shredded cabbage, 6 prunes, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons vinegar, 4 tablespoons heavy cream.

Let cabbage stand in ice water for thirty minutes. Drain. Add sugar and salt and crush slightly with a wooden spoon. Steam prunes until plump and remove pits. Cut in narrow strips and add to cabbage. Add vinegar, mixing well with a fork. Add cream, beating it into the mixture until the whole is frothy. Serve on the vivid green of leaf lettuce.

Raisins can be added to cabbage in place of prunes.

Light Fruit Cake
2 1/2 cups sugar, 1/2 teaspoon lemon extract, 1 cup dark brown sugar, 1/2 cup toasted coconut, 1 1/2 cups water, 1/2 cup pecans, 3 tablespoons butter, 1/2 cup candied cherries, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 cup candied pineapple.

Boil, stirring frequently, the sugars, water and butter. When soft ball forms in cold water remove from fire and let stand 20 minutes. Add extracts and beat until creamy. Add rest of ingredients and drop portions from tip of spoon onto waxed paper to cool.

Sweets Ideal for Christmas Menu

Home-Made Candies and Cookies Are Treasured Holiday Memories

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
Author of "Menus of the Day"
The joyful anticipation of Christmas is accentuated in many homes by the preparation of holiday confections, many of which are made at no other season of the year.

Home-made candies, cookies and other delicacies in gayly wrapped boxes and holly trimmed baskets make treasured gifts which bring memories of bygone childhood holidays and merry-making.

Holiday Food Favorites
Peppernuts
(Old Holiday Standbys)

1 1/2 cup fat, 1 tablespoon cardamom seeds, 2 cups confectioners sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1/4 cup cream, 1 1/2 cup chopped citron, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 1/2 cup chopped candied orange peel, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/2 teaspoon aniseed, 1/2 teaspoon black pepper, 1/2 teaspoon soda.

Cream fat and sugar. Add rest of ingredients. Chill dough 3 hours or longer. Shape into 2 1/2 inch balls, sprinkle with more confectioners' sugar and arrange 3 inches apart on greased baking sheet. Bake 12 minutes in moderate oven.

Scoffoon
1 cup brown sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg white, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 1/2 cup water.

Boil sugar and water without stirring until fine thread forms when portion is poured from spoon, pour into egg white, beaten. Beat until mixture becomes thick. Add rest of ingredients and drop from spoon onto waxed paper. Top with nuts or dates.

Spiced Nuts
(Something Different)
1 cup nuts, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 egg white, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cloves.

Beat egg white, add sugar and spices. Add nuts and when well covered spread in thin layer in shallow pan. Bake 30 minutes in very slow oven.

Boil sugar, cream of tartar, milk, cream and salt until soft ball forms in cold water. Stir frequently. Remove candy from fire and pour into 2 shallow dishes which have been rinsed out of cold water. Do not beat for 10 minutes. Beat one portion until thick and creamy. Add vanilla, dates and nuts. Knead until soft and creamy. Shape into leaf 1 inch thick. Place on waxed paper. Add almond extract to the other dish of candy and beat until creamy and thick. Pour over the leaf. Chill and cut in slices.

Santa's Pack Is Heavy This Year

New Boom Hits Toyville's Market This Christmas Season

By CHARLES NORMAN
Associated Press Correspondent
NEW YORK — (AP) — There is a "boom" in Toyville, and Santa Claus' pack will be heavier—and costlier—this Christmas.

Santa, of course, is not interested in figures—but they show that the $200,000,000 toy industry is experiencing its best year since 1929, with advance sales 10 per cent ahead of last year, and a scarcity—already apparent in "quality toys"—those of higher price.

And toy factories, as a result, are working night and day, in 30 states, to keep up with the demand, says the Toy Manufacturers of the U. S. A. Inc.

They Really Work
A glance at Santa Claus' 1935 pack shows every type of industry represented in "put-the-children-to-work" playthings. From housekeeping to building, toys are efficient, gleaming and streamlined. Stoves that can cook a turkey, electric trains from $4 to $2,000 and grocery stores with scales that really weigh, safes with combinations, dial telephones and cash registers are "in the bag" for Santa.

Farm toys are very popular, too, says the toy group, absorbing it to the wide publicity given the farm belt by the drought. Farm animals, barns with modern lines, and tractors and snow plows are some of the headliners.

In keeping with the "toys that work" motif, there are lead-casting sets with which youngsters can make their own toys, if they wish; cement-mixers that mix cement; optometrist sets with which Johnny can grind glasses for leaf can lined with waxed paper. Bake 1 1/2 hours in moderately slow oven.

Date Balls
(Spicy Fruit Cookies)
2 1/2 cup fat, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 1/2 cups brown sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 3 tablespoons vanilla, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 cup chopped dates, 1 teaspoon cloves, 4 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar.

Cream fat and sugar. Add eggs and cream, beat well. Add rest of ingredients and drop small portions from tip of spoon onto greased baking sheets. Space 3 inches. Bake 12 minutes in moderate oven.

Sister Mary's Kitchen
By Mrs. Mary E. Dague
Recent investigation has pretty well established the fact that commercially canned fruits and those done at home by the so-called hot-pack and pressure methods supply the same vitamins as fresh fruit. While the open-kettle method of canning is destructive to vitamin C, the same amount of heat applied to foods after sealing in cans has very little effect on this important element.
Dried fruits are not to be depended upon for vitamin C. But with this exception they retain all the other essential properties of fresh and canned fruits. Vitamins A and B, mineral

Democrats Plan a Campaign in East

Invasion of G.O.P. Strongholds in 1936 Is Clearly Forecast

By BYRON PRICE
Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington

A major turn in political strategy is hinted in recent Democratic utterances toward the supposedly conservative East.

If the current trend of these overtures means anything, it indicates the Democratic organization is planning to attack in force at the very point where the Republican strategists have felt most secure.

Such a development would be contrary to all previous expectations. Up to a month or so ago, it was the almost universal supposition that Democratic preparations were pointing in exactly the opposite direction.

The belief was widespread that, with the South to start with, Mr. Roosevelt would concentrate on annexing in the West and Midwest the needed additional electoral votes.

It was taken for granted, of course, that the East would not be permitted to go Republican entirely by default. Some sort of campaign would be made there, but many politicians were convinced it would be largely perfunctory and without hope.

What happened is not yet clear, but the evidence of a revision of previous plans is quite fascinating.

Indications
First there was the matter of the local elections in November involving state and municipal offices in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and several other places.

Instead of taking defeat without a struggle, the eastern Democratic organizations infused their workers with zeal which provided some genuine surprises.

In New York state the Democrats polled a state-wide majority of nearly 400,000 causing so staunch a "new deal" force as Representative Hamilton Fish to classify the Empire state as among the most doubtful in 1936.

In New Jersey the Democrats lost in one branch of the legislature, but gained in the other. Democratic machines in several Pennsylvania cities demonstrated an unprecedented voting strength.

Immediately thereafter, important party leaders began to lean toward Philadelphia as the 1936 convention city of the Democrats. By late November that city seemed to be well in the lead. The circumstance can be explained only as meaning that these leaders think a full-force campaign in Pennsylvania would be worth trying.

Finally, the President himself, in his Atlanta speech, talked directly to those eastern critics who have made much of the issue of government spending and recurring deficits.

If his earlier speeches were pointed westward, this one certainly was aimed at the financial and industrial centers along the eastern seaboard.

President's Plans
This group of developments, considered as a whole, might fit in with any one of several explanations. It is possible that Mr. Roosevelt, realizing how difficult it has been in the past to carry a presidential election against a united industrial east, really has determined to make a play for a combination of south and east, leaving the western situation to more or less take care of itself.

It is possible that, in spite of the assumption of a revolt against his policies in the east, he will try as he did in 1932 to play both east and west, in the hope of repeating his sweeping victory of four years ago.

It always is possible that he merely is seeking to confuse the opposition. A threat of attack against the enemy's strongest point, while the real advance is carried out elsewhere, is a familiar military ruse, designed to keep the opposing army harassed and bottled up until it is too late.

Even his political foes give the President credit for exceptional political astuteness, and no one expects so experienced a strategist to disclose his hand so early in the campaign. The knowledge of his reputation for quick-ly-evecut turning movements greatly increases the curiosity of the opposing generals.

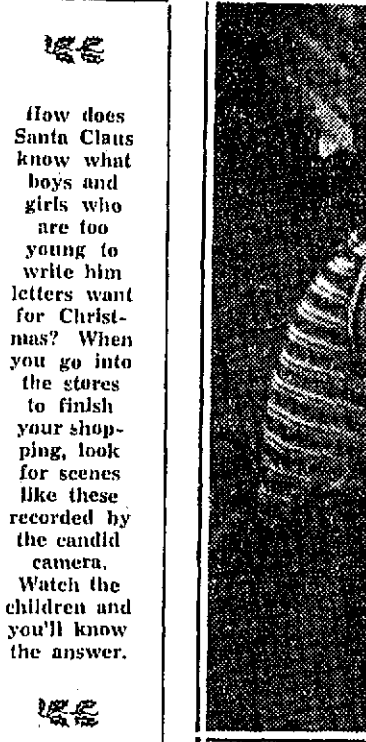

What Certain Little Boys and Girls Want for Christmas

Her wide-eyed look testifies to the tiny shopper's interest in a toyland display.

"I don't want to" was the young hobby horse enthusiast's answer when told to get off her mount.

Now how does this work? the young fellow seems to be thinking as he experiments with one of the wonders of the toy counters.

Delight, rapture, amazement—every degree of pleasure is registered as the multiple wonders of toyland unfold before young and eager eyes. There's something of special interest for each one—and Santa picks those articles to go under the Christmas tree.

The dazzling toys he sees when held high above the counter leave this toddler speechless with delight and amazement.

No adult inspects a new auto just carefully than does this young motorist enthusiast.

Clyde Ross returned home last week after an extended visit with friends and relatives in Waco and other parts of Texas.

Quite a number from this community enjoyed the program at the city hall in Hope, Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Alford and little daughter Glenda Fay, were in Hope, shopping Monday.

WASHINGTON—The predicted drive for economy in government during the coming session of congress is beginning to take on the appearance of reality.

A thin-lipped Texan, with bushy hair and a determined jaw is sending shivers up and down the spines of bureaucrats around Washington since his arrival in town the other day. He is James P. Buchanan, chairman of the house appropriations committee, the key man in the forthcoming battle over governmental expenditures.

"Economy-bent Buck" is the sobriquet already given him on capitol hill and it doesn't bother him at all. Pledged to bring the federal budget within $800,000,000 of balance next session, he has adopted as his slogan—"Reduction all along the line."

Why Not Cut
Consider Buchanan's attitude, for example, on the social security act passed in the last session providing for old-age pensions, child, blind and health aids.

Operating funds for the vast program were held up when the bill carrying the appropriation was filibustered to death in the closing hours of the session. The social security board has operated since on a shoestring.

Why, reasons Buchanan, should congress come along now and appropriate the full amount ($90,000,000) asked in the first place? Why not reduce the appropriation to the amount necessary for the remainder of the fiscal year and let the treasury profit?

If he has his way, many millions of dollars will be saved in this one instance.

Shrewd Trader
As chairman of the appropriations committee, Buchanan is in a position to go far toward having his way in the matter of economy. Not only is he master of his committee which controls the purse strings of the nation, but because individual members of the house hesitate to alienate a committee from which later they may seek favors, he usually comes out on top where expenditures are concerned.

He has demonstrated his ability to hold his own with the senate on the matter of spending, too. When it comes to adjusting differences between the two houses, Buchanan is a shrewd trader.

Circumstances may force him to sponsor additional emergency expenditures in the coming session. He'll do it if convinced it is absolutely necessary. That's how "regular" he is.

But he is "economy bent," and, although he expects "a devil of a fight," he's already for it.

Jolo, capital of the Sulu province of the Philippines, is the chief center of the pearling fleet of that region.

Louis, by sticking around, although it seems inconceivable, on paper at least, that he will do so longer than Baer or Carnara did. Baer, too, said he had never been knocked down or knocked out until he met Louis.

The lure of Louis, cynicism to one side, is still strong around these parts. The man who bought the million-dollar gate back to "outdoor" fights will pack 'em in the Garden the night of December 13. Right now it looks like a sellout. Seating capacity is 18,000 and tickets are scaled from $15 ringside to $2 for the humbler spectators. A capacity house playing from $2 to $15 adds up to $128,000.

He sneered when the pride of the Midwest arrived to meet Carnara—although Mr. Fan stayed to cheer when he saw the businesslike way Louis disposed of the pride of Italy and Harlem.

He laughed off the King Levinsky fiasco.

He boomed Max Baer when the Harlequin of the ring was counted out.

But he still sat back and asked to be shown.

Madison Square Garden will oblige, by tossing in another gladiator to test the fistic prowess of Joe Louis.

Paulino, the durable Basque, is a veteran, at home over the long route. He has gone 15 rounds with Tom Heeney, Pierre Charles, Max Schmeling and Primo Carnara, and 20 with Max Baer. He has never been knocked down or out, and has 37 knockouts to his credit, including one over Phil Scott, the Phantom of the Thames.

He is proud of his lasting ability and his undoubted jaw. He is confident Louis can't hurt him, although the fans are afraid it may be vice versa.

He figures to be the logical opponent to make Louis open up his bag of tricks and trot them all out for the customers, if he manages to remain upright long enough. The New York fan is hoping for the best.

Paulino is Confident
Paulino, who has been fighting a long time and now is 36, may not be equal to the old Louis has in store for him, but opponents for the Brown Bomber are few and far between; some of them, in fact haven't emerged from the storm cellars into which they

Ginger Saved From Stardom as Child

Mother's Emphatic "No" Prevented Blighting of Her Career

By ROBIN COONS
Associated Press Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—What might have happened to Ginger Rogers' career if in earlier days she had become the baby star she could have been?

It was only Ginger's mother, Mrs. Lela Rogers Temple, who saved her from a Shirley Temple career in today's very successful Ginger. She is not sorry, today, that she did.

Mrs. Rogers, a youthful-looking mother and a favorite companion to her daughter, now is coach to the dramatic yearnings of Ginger's studio (R-K-O) and a couple of years ago was owner-producer of her own little theater here. Even before that she was no stranger to the picture business, although Ginger's real connection with films came after talkies.

Mama Said "No!"
In the silent days Lela Rogers was a writer at the old Balboa studios. She got $75 a week and her duties included such non-auditorial functions as taking the completed pictures to New York to peddle them on the open market.

Little Ginger then lived with her grandmother in the east, but sometimes, visiting her mother, she played around the movie lot. She was favorite playmate to "Baby" Marie Osborne, Balboa's little child wonder, and it was inevitable that a director should seek her for films.

But Mama Rogers said "No!" and meant it. She thought pictures, then at least, were too hard on the child. She spent a great deal of time "mothering" Baby Marie, who was destined to grow up and reap none of the financial rewards of her child labor. (The sequel to this rather happy ending: some months ago Mrs. Rogers found Marie Osborne whose film stories she used to write and got her a job as Ginger's stand-in.)

Won Dance Contest
So Ginger did not become a child star. Mrs. Rogers took a job only newspaper in Fort Worth, Texas, and it was in Texas that Ginger, just at the age when her mother had planned to have her start to college, won a Charleston contest, and a small stage engagement.

And it was then that her mother, who had kept her from child stardom, decided the time was ripe to let Ginger's stage ambitions have their way. So she spent her last $200—the newspaper had changed hands meanwhile—on a fitting stage setting for Ginger.

Considering that Madge Evans is the only child star of the "silents" to make the grade in talkies, it would seem that Ginger owes a lot to her mother's decisive "No!"

The kinder, commonest American grandmother in the east, but sometimes, visiting her mother, she played around the movie lot. She was favorite playmate to "Baby" Marie Osborne, Balboa's little child wonder, and it was inevitable that a director should seek her for films.

Axe-Man of Pyrenees Has Never Yet Been Knocked Off His Feet

By CHARLES NORMAN

NEW YORK (AP)—For the delectation of the world's most cynical fight fans Joe Louis, the Belting Benedict, will enter the ring at Madison Square Garden on Friday the 13th to swap punches with Paulino Uzudun, the axe-man of the Pyrenees, for 15 rounds—or less.

At a time when most people are thinking of peace on earth, good will to men, the Brown Bomber of Detroit awaits the clang of the gong that will send him, a sleek slaughter machine, to mow down the Bounding Basque, who is conceded only an outside chance to bound out of the way safely.

Fans Are Fickle
And waiting with him are New York's ring followers, wise to the ways of Tin Ear Alley, who still have to be shown what this fellow from Detroit has—because, when they stopped shouting for Primo Carnara and Max Baer, about the time Joe Louis was stepping the prides of Italy and Broadway, they began to wonder what they ever saw in these two former heavyweight champions of the world.

That's the New York fight fan, with a suspicious resemblance to his gallery brothers in London, Buenos Aires, Seattle and Waco, Texas.

For this reason, the ring-wise here are earmarking pennies, nickels and dimes, in order to take their places when the line forms on the right. Now, they figure, if the Brown Bomber is really all that has been said of him, there is a treat in store. In short, they expect to see the shutter brought

NEW YORK (AP)—For the delectation of the world's most cynical fight fans Joe Louis, the Belting Benedict, will enter the ring at Madison Square Garden on Friday the 13th to swap punches with Paulino Uzudun, the axe-man of the Pyrenees, for 15 rounds—or less.

At a time when most people are thinking of peace on earth, good will to men, the Brown Bomber of Detroit awaits the clang of the gong that will send him, a sleek slaughter machine, to mow down the Bounding Basque, who is conceded only an outside chance to bound out of the way safely.

Fans Are Fickle
And waiting with him are New York's ring followers, wise to the ways of Tin Ear Alley, who still have to be shown what this fellow from Detroit has—because, when they stopped shouting for Primo Carnara and Max Baer, about the time Joe Louis was stepping the prides of Italy and Broadway, they began to wonder what they ever saw in these two former heavyweight champions of the world.

That's the New York fight fan, with a suspicious resemblance to his gallery brothers in London, Buenos Aires, Seattle and Waco, Texas.

For this reason, the ring-wise here are earmarking pennies, nickels and dimes, in order to take their places when the line forms on the right. Now, they figure, if the Brown Bomber is really all that has been said of him, there is a treat in store. In short, they expect to see the shutter brought
